About Me:

I have the ability and interest to learn anything.

I learned all the necessary skills for the front end. But I want to get acquainted with the challenges of the labor market. As a front-end developer, I expect mentoring, consulting and providing an environment for progress. What kind of team i would like to work in: a job is ideal where I can learn new things every day and face cool challenges. It is possible to grow and learn. if your company provides mentoring, training, advice, and support. I have a great desire to cooperate with you.

Work Experience:

(My last three job experience)

Mid-level frontend developer
Toronto, Canada (Full Time - Remote)

Mealsy

Sep 2021 until now

I am working remotely as a senior WordPress developer and mid-level Frontend developer. At the very beginning, I adapted myself to the team very quickly and dedicated several hours daily learning the necessary and practical skills (at my free time). Time management and teamwork are the skills I have learned during this time. My high speed in web design, and the ideas I had for automation made the employer add several people to the sales team, and the total number of projects completed per month increased significantly. During this time, I faced international challenges, solving these challenges gave me a lot of experience.
